

4 May 2009

ClickandBuy appoints Dr. Christoph Kurpinski as group CTO

US online payment processing services provider ClickandBuy has added Dr. Christoph Kurpinski to the company's team as the new chief technology officer.

In his new position, Dr. Kurpinski is to be held responsible for the creation of the technical requirements necessary for the development of the ClickandBuy system. Before joining the company, he collaborated with several ICT companies and also served as board chairman at dtms, a German company that provides telephone service numbers and related services.